CHERRY PECTORAL

For the Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

Of all the medicines we manufacture, (and some of them are valuable,) by the cure of pulmonary complaints is unquestionably Stand-most which could compete in every respect with this Preparation. Others cure a cough—but so inflammation and its many dreadful consequences of Coughs and Colds which are neglected, ripen into final consumption.

The Diploma of the Massachusetts Institute was awarded to this preparation by the Board of Judges in September 1847, also, the Medals of the three great Institutes of Arts in this country, also the Diploma of the Ohio Institute at Cincinnati, have been given to the Cherry Pectoral by the Government in consideration of its extraordinary excellence and usefulness in curing all forms of the Lungs and Throat.

From the following opinion (sanged on the long experience of the eminent Physician of the Port and city of ST. JOHNS, May 8, 1852.

Dr. J. C. Ayer—

I have tried of your CHERRY PECTORAL, in my practice, has proven what I foresaw from its composition, must be true, that it and all pulmonary complaints for which it is, in this section, are peculiarly adapted.

I think its equal has not yet been discovered, nor do I know I can a better remedy can be made for the complaints of the Throat and Lungs.

J. J. HUTTON, M. D. F. R.

Seeing what it has done as a wonderful constitution, not only in the following cases, but a thousand more:

SCHODAC, Jan. 24th, 1852.

Dr. Ayer—In the month of July last I was attacked by violent Bronchitis, in the vicinity of California, resided to San Francisco in hope of receiving benefit from a change of climate and diet. My disease grew worse and worse, until in a severe cough—had myself, as regarded my recovery, but without effect; my health suffered severely, and the state of the sufferings of my wife during the last 33 years, and solicited them with her presently enjoyment of health, you would indeed feel delighted to having been the means of so greatly alleviating the sufferings of a fellow creature.

A PERSON 70 YEARS OF AGE CURED OF A BAD LEG, OF THIRTY YEARS STANDING.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Wm. Abbs, Builder of Gas Works, of Rumbelow, near Huddersfield, dated May 31 1851.

To Professor Holloway,

Sir,—I suffered for a period of thirty years from a bad leg, in the result of two or three different accidents at Gas Works, accompanied by scorbutic symptoms. I had recourse to a variety of medical advice, without deriving any relief, and was even told that the leg must be amputated. Yet, in opposition to that opinion, your Pills and Ointment have effected a complete cure in so short a time, that few who had not witnessed it would credit the fact. (Signed) WILLIAM ABBS.

The truth of this statement can be certified by Mr. W. P. England, Chemist, Market street, Huddersfield.

A DREADFUL BAD BREAST CURED IN ONE MONTH.

Extract of a letter from Mr. Edward Turner, of Tonbridge, Kent, dated December 4th, 1850.

To Professor Holloway,

Dear Sir,—My wife had suffered from bad Breasts for more than six months, and during the whole period had the best medical attendance, but all in no use. Having before known an awful wound in my own leg by your unrivalled medicine, I determined again to use your Pills and Ointment, and therefore gave them a trial to her cure, and fortunate it was, and so for in health perfect cure was effected, and the various other branches of my family from their use in equally astonishing I so recommend them to all my friends

(Signed) FREDERICK T. B.

Lesage's Specific,

NEVER having remedy for thoroughly eradicating diseases of the Urinary Organs, such as Gonnorrhea, Gleets, Whites, Stricture, Stone in the Bladder, &c. and pains, but to be once used to be universally esteemed. The proprietor would respectfully caution those troubled with the above among the complaints, to beware of those quacks every-thing, which unprincipled individuals, without the slightest knowledge of the structure of the human system, recommend for every disease. Lesage's Specific is only intended for the cure of Private Diseases and the thousands that have sent their unsolicited certificates much for its efficacy, while the better it is known the greater is the demand for it. How different from the various quack medicines which, when the unhappy patient has once used, no inducement can ever make try again. Lesage's Specific has been the remedy depended on by every class, the senator, the lawyer, the mechanic, the sailor and the dashing orphan. Give all tried it and found it truly the good Samaritan the hour of trouble.

Dr. Darby, annexes extracts from some of his certificates:

U. S. Frigate Cumberland, 1851. I contracted sickness at Naples, and tried all the remedies suggested by the most experienced Surgeons, without success. Lesage's Specific has restored to me the health I long despaired of.—J. W. W.

Louisville, Ky.—I have much pleasure in stating that Lesage's Specific has cured me of a gleet of 24 months duration.—H. D.

Bangor, Me.—After having used two bottles I found a perfect cure of an old standing complaint in six days and shall not fail to recommend it, should I know of any troubled as I was.—John Brown.

Sold by HALL, H. H. DARBY, Apothecary, No 9 Broad street, Boston. Price $1.00 per bottle; two bottles $1.75.

Orders from the country enclosing a remittance promptly attended to. A liberal discount made to physicians, Apothecaries, Masters of Vessels and Expressmen.

Whig and Courier

Kind Hearts under Coarse Jackets.

Early one morning, last winter, the snow was falling fast in the streets of Edinburgh. The wind blew cold and cold, driving down the drift into the kitchen areas, and, through the crevices of broken doors and shattered windows. The mechanic, with buttoned jacket and shuffling step, hastened with nimble feet to the workshop; and the old woman in the attic story was fastening her only shawl across the broken pane, from which the wind had torn a piece of newspaper she had pasted on the night before. An haggard looking mother was shivering in the streets, picking out of the snow the cinders and chips of coal with which she intended to prepare her baby's breakfast; for she had spent her last sixpence the previous evening, in the blazing tap-room of the dew whisker-shop. The streets, from side to side, were covered with ice from the snow which the sun had melted on the previous day; and gentlemen, muffled up in their dread-noughts, were shortening their steps and keeping even balance, lest they should indicate their lengths on the frozen pavement. Many of the boys, listening up their nose to the neighborhood, had been obliged to bolt a hasty breakfast alone; scalding their tongues with the hot porridge; for they had said so often, "Plenty of time yet!" when snuggling in the warm sheets, that they had scarcely their faces washed, when the bell was ringing. And what was worse—as they had before time to revise the morning lessons, their hearts were beating frightfully, expecting a practical explanation of the first declension by finding themselves at the bottom of the class.

But the best of the ragged scholar was less inviting; he was in no danger of holding a morning's parley with the cozy sheets. His kind was to be when the old Market stood at home, in which he wrapped himself on his straw bed; and when awaking in the morning, he found the shoes he had given him lying where he had left them; as they, too, were in danger of bedding their way to "smiles"—especially when father and mother were "on the spree." The wind awoke him that morning long before day-light, as it whistled and howled along the dingy wynds. He could not fall asleep again, for his feet were icy cold, his limbs stiff, and crouch together as he might, he could not get them warmed. He began to feel how true it is, that

"Sleep on her joyous pinions
Flies from wives, and lights on tubs
Unfailing with a terror."

What was he to do? He could not light a fire, for there were neither coals nor cinders in the room; and his father and mother had taken their clothes and spread them on their own bed so it was in vain to look about for something to cover him. As he lay and listened to the wintry winds, whirling and rattling among the shattered slates, and making the old doors and windows creak, as if determined to pull them down, his heart beat with hopeful gladness when he heard the hollow tones of the Tron church clock chiming away the weary hours. But another chill came over him when the old bell stopped short at four. "What! is it only four o'clock yet? Oh, I wish it was eight. (Another five hours to school-time." But the lazy clock would not speak again until another sixty minutes had passed. He lay, sometimes thinking to the angry winds, often listening for another chime; until at last he got angry at the "auld kettle," as he thought it wished to deceive him, from a desire to prolong his misery.

Hour after hour passed away—eight o'clock came at last, and found John standing at the end of the wynd, waiting for his school-fellows. On getting up, he found, that sure enough, his shoes had gone to "smiles" and how to get along the icy pavement on his bare feet he scarcely knew; but at last he thought the comfortable school room, and plate of warm porridge and milk would compensate for all, and soon make him forget the morning's misery. After a little time a number of his mates were standing around him, wondering why he was so soon astir; but when they saw his poor naked feet and ancles, shivering in the snow, their hearts were melted to pity.

They could not bear to see him limping along with knitted brows, and hear his sighs when his feet were pierced by the broken ice. But what could they do?—no one had got a pair of shoes to lend him; even if they had, the old clock was going faster now, and there was no time to return. "Let us carry him," said a noble little fellow. Yes, said another, "a shoulder high;" and in a minute John is placed upon their shoulders, and there triumphantly through the snow, amid the shouts and cheers of his ragged, but kind-hearted school-fellows! People stopped in the streets to look at the little company, and prayed that the God of the needy might bless them, when they saw their young hearts leap with gladness—happy in their deed of mercy.

Dear reader! strive to learn four lessons from the noble conduct of these ragged boys:

I. They pitied a poor unfortunate boy, who was worse off than themselves.

II. They did all they could to help him.

III. They did it at once.

IV. They did it cheerfully: with all their hearts.

GO THOU AND DO LIKEWISE.

☞ Uncle Sam in ragged phrase, means the pawnbroker.

An Efficacious Chastisement.

A most exemplary wife had the misfortune to wed a husband who, shortly after their marriage, became almost a sot. He was not a hard-hearted, nor an unjust man, but, like numerous others, could not resist temptation, and whenever asked to drink, had not the moral courage to say "no." His wife, whom he really loved, expostulated and reasoned, until he promised never to take liquor again; but as soon as thrown into company his resolutions were forgotten, and he fell into his old degrading habit. She went bitter, bitter tears, and began to despair of ever weaning him from his monstrous vice, especially as she had implored one of his fellow friends in vain, not to lead her husband into evil company. Regularly, however, the corrupting associate called, and, despite of her tears solicited her husband to visit such and such a place. The infatuated man could not resist, and went and came in a beastly state of intoxication.

The wretched woman, wrought to frenzy by the seeming ruin that awaited her, determined upon some plan to free her liege-lord from the importunities of his deceitful companion. One night, while her husband was asleep, she heard the well known footstep and knock at the door, and, opening it carefully, with a stout horse-whip in her hand, seized the unwelcome visitor by the hair of the head, and inflicted upon his body a chastisement of the most severe character. As soon as she released him, he ran off, and has ever since returned to sow thorns in the [illegible] her peaceful home. He has proved so impressed with her strength of mind and courage, that he regards, to be as much a man as she, and has since been as fond of her as he was before.—Portsmouth Commercial.

☞ Among the casualties of politics is the instance of the Eastern Argus representing that the passage of the "Maine Law" was a scheme of the whigs for the purpose of dividing the democratic party. With this big-bear it attempts to rally its party to the support of its candidates; and thus indirectly, but effectually and certainly, if it succeeds in its enterprise, to cause the Maine Law to be repealed! There are several papers in the State urging the election of Gov. Hubbard on the ground that he was in favor of the Law, and affixed his signature to it!

We are even told that there are Whigs in the State who intend to vote for Gov. Hubbard on account of his support to the law.

It is also stated that Judge Chandler the free and easy candidate has received a basket full of letters from leading locos to stand the nomination conferred upon him for the purpose of securing the ascendancy in Maine, of the loco party, and specially for the influence the September election will have upon the Presidential vote in November. They reason in this way: that Gov. Hubbard will get the votes of all the temperance locos and a portion of the temperance whigs, and that Judge Chandler will get all the rum locos and a portion of the rum whigs; that Gov. Hubbard will get all the Free Soil and free democracy vote; and all the votes for both these candidates are to be taken, and deemed as just so many "democratic votes" as live capital with which to do business on and establish a credit for the November election.

In this net work the whigs are politely invited to thrust in their heads and be caught, and this too when their own candidate is an upright temperance man! Can any man be duped with such figuring?

The place for the friends of the Maine Law to meet the question is with the members of the legislature, the Senate and the House.—There every blow tells directly upon the question, and with the legislation of the right stamp all the Governors that can be scared up can avail nothing against the Law. Think of that good whigs and friends of the law, and not be juggled into an indirect but effectual vote in favor of locofocoism, and which shall be turned against the hopes and chances for the gallant Old Chebrubusco, Gen. Scott!

Correspondents.

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier.

CAMDEN, August 12, 1852.

Have you already a Camden correspondent? If so, please throw this paper under the table, or twist it into a convenient shape for lighting your next cigar. I will be content to see Camden praised by a happier pen than mine. But if none such offers, shall its charms go all unrecorded? It seems to me but just that some little word should be spoken in behalf of a place which is so fast becoming a popular resort for our citizens, when worn with the burdens and heat of life's dusty ways, they seek some arbor of refreshment, where wearied nature may obtain a brief repose, and gather up its forces for a fresh encounter with the Giant, Toil. And will not our friends at home lend a willing ear while we speak of some of the ways in which we prosecute our purposes of recreation, and be thus induced in still larger numbers to join us here? The Camden hills are objects of interest to steamboat travelers on the Penobscot. But none who have not climbed their rocky heights can tell how beautiful is the view which those heights command of the harbor, spreading wide off into the Ocean, and the many islands, sleeping in their summer beauty in the midst. To climb the rough side of the mountain, which lies behind the village, to inhale upon its highest point the breeze fresh, or, if you please, salt, from the sea, to feast the eye upon the scenery around, composed of the bright and blue waters of Penobscot Bay spreading far and wide, around with all its green islets and white sailed craft of various name and size, the light summer green of the wavy plains, contrasted with the deeper green of orchard and grove, or the still deeper hue of the forest, "mantel with its solemn shade," while the pleasant homes of Camden lie just at our feet, has furnished us with one half day's recreation; and shall be the subject of grateful reminiscence for many a day to come. Sea bathing is to me one of the greatest luxuries which the place affords, and we may now have our choice of taking it in the open air, or in a convenient bathing house just erected by Capt. Clark for the especial benefit of visitors. Next in our list of pleasures come the charming drives so necessary to the invalid, and of which there is so great a variety that I hardly know which to mention first.—Passing by those sufficiently interesting to Rockport three miles, to Rockland six or seven, to West Thomaston ten or twelve, and all the shorter ones around the village, none of which are by any means tame, I shall speak particularly only of that commonly designated as the Turnpike. This is a piece of road about two miles in length, and a little more than two miles distant from the village, built around the base of a huge cliff, just where its rocky precipices seem to bury themselves in the waters of a beautiful little lake. Here as you drive along under the shadow of the overhanging cliff, rearing its dark summit high into the heavens, you hardly know which most to admire, the craggy eminence with all its frowning points and deep dark foliage on the right or the lake, in its quiet loveliness on the left, with the graceful slopes, rich forests, and green hill tops beyond.

This remarkable piece of road was built some twenty-five or thirty years ago by a farmer, for the more convenient transportation of his produce to market, held in toll by him several years, and then sold to the County, now of course, freely open to all. But I must not weary you, let your readers come and see for themselves. They will certainly find health in these pure breezes and fascinating drives.

☞ It is time now to attend to the gathering of flower seeds, for planting next spring. It is important, too, to destroy all weeds in the garden, instead of allowing them to go to seed.

☞ Tulip and Hyacinth Bulbs should be taken up and dried, and laid away for planting out in October.

☞ Ninety per cent of the fruit of tomato vines grow within two feet of the roots. It is well to promote the growth and ripening of such by cutting in the tops and lateral shoots to within about two feet.

☞ We would direct the attention of the reader to the Proclamation of the President of the United States, to be found in another column announcing a large sale of public lands in Minnesota.

☞ Girls should have roses on their cheeks when they retire to go—go to sleep with the lilies and get up with the morning glories.

☞ Thanks to Capt. J. H. Bryant, conductor of Hodgman & Co.'s Express for papers received on yesterday in advance of the mail.

☞ J. P. Cook, Whig, is elected to Congress in the third district in Iowa, by a majority of 600.

☞ The Herald now says the President and Mr. Webster have made up. This is a very convenient way of contradicting a false report.

Tax Commissioner.

☞ The Commissioner of Streets commenced on Thursday with his workmen and teams in widening Exchange and Harlow streets, and grading the Hester Common. We had hoped that the city authorities would have had the contemplated improvements in this portion of the city fully matured, and laid down upon a plan and staked out upon the surface of the earth, in order that the work might go on effectually and when effected that the excellence of the plan might commend itself to every mind. If anything of this kind has been attempted it has only been partially perfected, as the grounds and grade have not been staked nor can we learn that there is any plan.

We have great confidence in the good taste, good sense and skill of the Commissioner of Streets and would as soon trust him as any man; of it must be left to one hand, to complete the plan and execute the work required by these improvements, but we fear he will disappoint the public expectation if he undertakes to work without a definite plan, and his ear open to the rumors and various suggestions which may be made.

Perhaps the difficulty with us arises from the fact, that we have a very definite idea in our mind as to the manner in which the Hester Common should be graded, and we may have some fears that our ideal will not be realized, and hence our desire to see some plan of the work executed upon paper. We certainly should go against all angles except in the slightly ascending grade for the two planes from Harlow street, one towards Exchange street, and the other towards Centre street.

The old plan of grades and embankments such as prevailed a few years gone by have been outgrown. We perceive an egg-shape system which has made its appearance in Washington in the grounds around the Smithsonian Institute, under the direction of the late A. J. Downing, Esq., and which has been the theme of numerous commendations from artists and gentlemen of taste. Mr. Downing's system may be called the Natural system, and while it is more graceful, it is also more durable and does not require in any locality the erection of stone walls on the old system, as is in rear of the Executive Mansion in Washington.

The Horticulturist, August 1852.

This number of this most useful and interesting Magazine, of which A. J. Downing, Esq., has been the editor since its commencement, was prepared and printed before the sudden and very melancholy death of the editor on board the steamer Henry Clay. The reception of this work with its extra mourning sheet, announcing the death of Mr. Downing, sadly reminds us of the loss the world's country has experienced in this sad event. Mr. Downing by his superior taste and talents, and by the genial glow of his style, and his terse and practical character of his suggestions in the Horticulturist, had won thousands of admiring friends over whom he exercised a masterly influence in quickening them to right and rapid steps in the onward march of rural art and taste in architecture and gardening. He has sown the seed of a bright and beautiful future to our country. He has discovered and displayed the true principles of rural taste. His gatherings from the Old World, and the New gave him large facilities for progress in his professional pursuits, and he occupied a most commanding and important position. No work of this kind ever gave as much satisfaction to the lovers of rural art, as the Horticulturist.

"Brother there is a sailing o'er thee,
Many are with his arrow wet,
All are stricken he ere departs thee,
Who that knew him can forget."

The opening article of the August number of the Horticulturist is Shade Trees in Cities, is a capital specimen of his style, and of his truly American taste, his thorough culture, and his practical force and foresight.

The entire number is excellent in all its parts so interesting and instructive—his last work, tells strongly how much the country was indebted to him for right principles.

We may not soon expect to find in any one man the same elements of architect and gardener and artist, but we cannot get along without the Horticulturist, and what has heretofore been furnished by one man, must now be found in two. We trust, therefore, that the enterprising publisher of the Horticulturist, Luther Tucker, Esq., will speedily secure the requisite aid, that correspondents will be multiplied from the best informed cultivators of fruits and flowers, and that the publication will go on and sustain with ability the growing taste for the delights of rural embellishments.

Messrs. Henry Little & Co., are the Bangor Agents for this work.

☞ We have heretofore expressed a belief in the probability that the Free Soil National Convention would nominate as their candidate for the Presidency Hon. John P. Hale, notwithstanding his letter withdrawing his name entirely from the canvass. This result has been reached, probably under the lead of Mr. Giddings, whose proclivities and sympathies are towards the loco party. It is doubtful whether Mr. Hale will accept the nomination, the reasons for his withdrawing his name having equal force in favor of his declining. In this case probably no new Convention will be called, and the members of the party be left to vote for whomsoever of the candidates they may prefer.

Disputé resited Testimony.

Simon Brown, Esq., long the editor of a democratic journal in New Hampshire, and now of the New England Farmer, who spent several years at Washington, says General Scott "is a man of, inestimable private character, and is not less respected in his social than in his private relations." As to the General's fitness for the Presidency, Mr. Brown says—"That he possesses administrative qualities which at him for the Executive chair of the nation, his political opponents, whether Whig or democrat, will readily admit; and should he be elected to this high office, we doubt not he will fill it with honor to himself and credit to his country."

☞ Canada thistles are nuisances to farmers, and every one should do his part to eradicate them. They should be mown when in blossom.

☞ The prospect of the fruit crop in this vicinity is the delight of all. Indeed, vegetation generally is very promising and luxuriant.

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, August 11.

Senate. The Senate met at 11 o'clock. A number of petitions were presented and appropriately referred.

Mr. Badger's resolution to amend the 30th rule by striking out the clause excluding private claims from the general appropriation bill was taken up. Mr. Hunter in a speech opposed the resolution. Mr. Badger followed in its defence.

Mr. Bradbury made an explanation denying that he prepared an amendment to the Census Bill, out of which the difficulty respecting the salary of the Census Superintendent has arisen.

Mr. Davis reported back the House bill, known as the River and Harbor Bill, with sundry amendments.

Mr. Broadhead reported a bill for the relief of the heirs of Herman Blennerhassett, and said that when the bill came up he would ask the indulgence of the Senate to vindicate the truth of history in one or two particulars.

A resolution to pay to the widow of Noah Ransom, deceased, the arrears of his salary as messenger of the Senate, was agreed to.

The Indian appropriation bill was taken up. Mr. Jones of Iowa, offered an amendment appropriating $1200 to compensate for certain depredations by Sioux Indians in Iowa. The bill was reported to the Senate.

Mr. Weller moved to strike out $3000 for presents to California Indians, and insert $100,000 to purchase food and supplies for California Indians with whom treaties were made which have been rejected by the Senate.

The following are the amendments reported by the Senate Committee:—To the River and Harbor Bill, for the survey of the Rappahannock river, Virginia, $3000; for the survey of Taunton river, $3000; for the survey of San Antonio, Texas, $6000; for repairs of Little Egg Harbor, New Jersey, $8600; for repairs of East Pascagoula Bay, Miss., $6000; repairs of Providence harbor, Rhode Island, $1600; for examination of the falls of the Ohio river, by a board to be appointed by the Secretary to report on the expediency of an additional canal around the falls, $6000; for the repair of sea wall at Marblehead, Mass., $6000; for repairs of harbor at Georgetown, S. C., $3000; for the survey of Shrewsbury river, New Jersey, $1600.

Also for a breakwater at Owl's Head, or at Rockland harbor, Me., at the discretion of the department; for removal of obstructions at Dubuque, Iowa, $10,000; for improving Cape Fear river at or below Wilmington, N. C., $20,000; for repairs of piers at Hume river harbor, Ohio, $1500; for repairs at Ashtabula, $15,000; for repairs at breakwater at Burlington, Vt., $10,000; for repairs of breakwater at Cincinnati, Ohio, $10,000; for repairs of breakwater at Newcastle, $15,000; for further surveys of the harbor at Bridgeport, Connecticut, $1000.

The amendment was modified in its terms so as to declare that by this appropriation the Government should not be considered as committed to any policy of contributing to the support of Indians. A long debate took place upon the necessity of doing something to keep quiet these Indians. The amendment was then agreed to.

The bill was referred to the Senate, and all the amendments agreed to. Other amendments were adopted, one of which, moved by Mr. Walker, providing that money appropriated by Congress shall be paid to Indians in person, and not to agents or attorneys, and that all agents to distribute money shall first swear that they have no pecuniary interest in the sums appropriated. The bill was ordered to be engrossed. Adjourned.

The House resumed the consideration of the bill regulating the costs and fees of Attorneys, Marshals and Clerks in the U. S. Circuit and District Courts.

Mr. McLanahan answered the objections which had been made against the bill, and said that by an estimate of the department of the interior, it would, if passed, save the Government $150,000, and double that amount to the people.

He said the bill proposed to equalize fees and cost throughout the country. Having spent nine months of this session, he called on gentlemen to pass this measure of reform, and lay it at the feet of their constituents as an atonement for the past.

Mr. Letcher moved to lay the bill on the table. Lost. Yeas 10; nays 112.

Pending the question on advancing the bill on the third reading, the morning hour expired.

Messrs. Brooks and Briggs presented memorials asking the passage of a law protecting the lives on steamers; referred to Committee on Commerce.

After the transaction of some unimportant business the debate on the new Judiciary Fee bill was resumed.

A motion was made to commit the bill and lost. A motion was then made to lay the bill on the table—the yeas and nays being taken it was decided in the negative.

The morning hour having expired the House went into Committee of the Whole and resumed the consideration of the Civil and Diplomatic Appropriation bill, with the amendment offered yesterday.

A resolution was offered and adopted in favor of stopping five minute speeches during the debate upon the bill.

The subject of allowing extra pay to the clerks in executive departments in Washington, was resumed.

Mr. Brenton offered an amendment proposing a classification of clerks, they to continue in office not longer than twelve years; also fixing the salaries of members of Congress at two thousand per annum, and mileage at twenty cents a mile, to be computed in a straight line, members to be limited for absence except in cases of sickness. This provision to take effect after March 4th, 1853. He briefly explained the amendment, saying that it was proposed to remedy evils about which there is much complaint made in the country.

Mr. Hall asked the gentleman to accept of the following modification, viz: Providing the administration should of course look among those who affirm its policy, to carry it into execution.

Mr. Brenton said he could not accept the proviso, as his amendment would divest the amendment as far as possible of party influence.

Mr. Hall said he was exceedingly sorry that the gentleman repudiated the great leader of the Whig party in this early stage of the contest, as the language of the proviso was copied in the words of General Scott himself.

Mr. Brenton's amendment was voted down.

Mr. Johnson of Tennessee moved an additional 20 per cent to the pay of all employees of Government, engaged in any branch of mechanics or as common laborers.

Mr. Florence moved an amendment that the prices now paid to all sewing women in the employ of the government, working upon any clothing or any other of the supplies usually provided under the direction of the Quartermaster's department, and produced mainly by female labor, be increased 25 per cent. Both of these amendments were rejected.

Finally the proposition to increase the salaries of the clerks, messengers, watchmen and laborers, engaged with executive and legislative departments in the city, was agreed to, giving 20 per cent additional to those who do not receive exceeding $1200 per annum, to take effect from the first of July last.

The proviso of Mr. Green was added to this, as follows: providing that this section shall not extend to any person receiving a salary for discharging the duties of more than one office at the same time, or to any person who does not actually discharge the duties of the office for which he receives such salary, or to any person engaged in prosecuting any claim before any of the departments of Congress, and that in case any person or member of the officers of the government shall pay any pecuniary consideration to any person, it shall be a misdemeanor in the person knowingly paying or receiving such consideration per omic, rendering each liable to punishment by fine and imprisonment. In addition to the above, there is a proviso that the provision of the section shall not apply to those where compensation has been increased during the present session of Congress.

Mr. Jones of Pennsylvania moved to amend by adding a section proposing duties to be collected on a home valuation.

The Chairman ruled it out of order, and was sustained by the Committee—yeas 80, nays 81.

Various other amendments were acted upon, when the Committee rose, and the bill as amended was reported to the House.

There was a non-concurrence, 66 against 61, authorizing retaliatory light-house duties on the vessels belonging to foreign nations which levy such duties on American vessels.

Nearly all, upwards of 60 amendments, were disposed of, including one prohibitive of constructive mileage for a session called within 10 days after the adjournment of Congress. Adjourned.

"Boring for Water."

The Nashua Telegraph has an anecdote of Gen. Pierce's power with a jury. Some very trivial case was up, which "he was determined to make the most of." By some imaginary torture, he got the jury "blubbering like so many spanked children," and when he closed there was no doubt that he had contrived to steal the case. But old Gov. H. happened to be the opposing counsel. He arose and commenced his plea by saying—"May it please the Court, I do not, in this case, propose to bore for water. The tears of his weeping auditory were suspended midway upon their deluged cheeks, until shaken from their resting places by the laughter which ensued, which the whole farce was thus presented in all its ridiculousness. It is needless to say that Pierce lost the case.

BANGOR AIR-TIGHT COOKING STOVE!

THE best Cook Stove ever introduced to this or any other people.

Having secured the sole agency of this very desirable Stove, I take great pleasure in offering it to my Customers and the public. This Stove was invented expressly for this eastern market, by those experienced and expert Stove manufacturers' Messrs. Eastes & Whittier, who know, and have appreciated the wants of this enlightened people. It is now offered to the public with the fullest confidence in its merits, and its superiority over every other Cooking apparatus ever introduced. Its conveniences for Boiling, Broiling, Frying, &c., are not surpassed, and its extensive and beautiful Oven for Baking and Roasting, will at once recommend itself to the Ladies. The very important feature is, it has very stout and smooth castings, and being manufactured in this city, can at all times be repaired, if ever necessary, at a trifling expense without subjecting one to wait for castings to be ordered from New York, Rhode Island, or elsewhere. Every Stove is warranted one year, and one not giving entire satisfaction may be returned and the money will be refunded after 30 days trial.

—ALSO—

A great variety of other patterns of cooking Stoves, such as the
